Quote

Most problems are not caused by false or lacking systems or procedures but by the behaviour of people.

Still, most of the time solutions are sought by improving systems and procedures or tougher legislation.
